S. L. Cantley, State Finance Commissioner, announced in St. Louis last night that he will tender his resignation to Gov. Caulfield today and qualify as receiver for the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank. The Federal Farm Loan Board appointed him receiver yesterday to take immediate charge of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank as a result of the latter's failure to pay June 1 interest.

THE EDITOR SAYS—

T. A. Penman of New Madrid County is in the race for State Senator from this, the 23d District. He has been a county judge in his home county and represented his county in the State Legislature the last two terms. He is a man of impeccable character, a farmer by profession, a college graduate, and just the sort of man to represent this District. This is no time to put forward any man of any party for any office who is not 100 per cent sound, and in Judge Penman we have just such a man, one who will look after the interests of Southeast Missouri at all times.

It was a terrible thing that prohibition agents did to the Fish in Apple Creek, Cape Girardeau County, when they poured 6000 gallons of beer into that pure stream and bushels of fish were pickled or paralyzed. Why didn't they call in 48,000 of us human fish and give us a mint each and save the fish and made so many people feel pleasant during the depression. Something ought to be done about this.

There is a very expressive bill on the board opposite The Standard office. It is a great big bull rearing to go, with head up and snorting. Over the fence is a meek looking cow gazing at her boy friend with the word overhead "Her Hero".

George Buchanan has announced as a candidate for County Judge the First District, subject to the Democratic primary. Mr. Buchanan is not a stranger to the duties of the office nor to the voters of the District as he has filled the office before with dignity and credit.

A good many inquiries have been made as to why the front window was out of The Standard office Tuesday. We heard Charlie tell an insurance man that he threw a collector through the window and smashed the plate glass. The real reason was because the glass was badly cracked and was dangerous.

Senator Borah isn't going to the Republican National Convention. This leaves former Senator Dr. Joseph I. France of Maryland, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, the only outstanding figure with anything of sufficient interest to keep the convention awake.

The most noted "lame duck" of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act was the principal co-author, Representative Hawley (Rep., Ore.) himself, who was defeated for re-nomination by his constituents. The fate of some of the most prominent advocates of this trade-wrecking measure has been postponed until November.

We have been asked what becomes of the movie stars when they get too old to act. We can't say for certain but from the number of times some of them are wed, the women must open beauty parlors and keep on acting and the men speakies and keep on drinking.

J. M. Buchanan is in charge of the Hole-in-the-Wall greasless doughnut shop adjoining the Sparks barber shop on the corner. The place has been scrubbed from end to end and the interior covered with white enamel the better to keep it clean and sanitary. Screens keep out the flies and an electric cooler permits him to turn out doughnuts on short notice.

The "best minds" of high finance, rather dazed, read Gov. Roosevelt's recent speeches about "the forgotten man" and the need of a new kind of government system. They asked, "Am I dreaming? Is someone really suggesting that ours is not the ultimate and absolutely perfect government? Is it possible that we might have a better government? Those best minds will be more puzzled when they learn that the middle west and far west, the farmers tired of wheat selling for 30 cents on the farm, the workers idle, or with pay cut, call Gov. Roosevelt "too old-fashioned and conservative" and demand some "plain speaking". Millions of Americans were as conservative as so many bread puddings while the car, radio, washing machine and bungalow installments were all paid up. But that has changed, and 1932 edition of a Karl Marx might sell many copies, if the dissatisfied had money to buy them, in spite of the fact that they would not generally understand Marx any more than he would understand them. It will all pass like a dream about falling back into the prosperity tree again. But how we hate that falling sensation.—Arthur Brisbane.

INQUIRY OF FARM MACHINERY PRICES SOUGHT IN SENATE

Washington, May 28.—An investigation of the price of farm machinery was asked for today in a resolution introduced by Senator Thomas (Rep., Idaho), which was referred to the Agriculture Committee for consideration.

The investigation would cover prices in 1931 and 1932 as compared with previous years and ascertain whether they had declined in proportion to drops in the prices of agricultural products.

With the resolution Thomas submitted a table showing that from 1910 to 1931 machinery price figures rose from 101 to 154, while farm product prices fell from 103 to 80, with a high period over 200 to 1918, 1919 and 1920 but that 147 in 1925 was the highest since.

One-Girl Track Team From Senath Seeks Place at Olympic Games

Senath, Mo., May 30.—Chances of Lucille Douglass, Senath high school student and outstanding feminine athlete in Southeast Missouri, for winning a place on the United States Olympic team this year are considered good.

Already she has been successful in one qualifying Olympic meet held at Columbia, Mo., in May, and she plans to compete in another to be held in St. Louis in June. In the meet at Columbia she entered the high jump and won both, and placed second in the 50-yard dash.

By winning at Columbia, she qualified to participate in the national tryouts for the U. S. Olympic team to be held in Chicago in July. A sophomore and 16 years old, Miss Douglass has won many honors. In the Dunklin County high school track meet in 1931, she won four first places, set two new county records and tied for one, and was high point girl of the meet. In the district meet held at Sikeston the same year, she won two first places.

This year she was again high point girl of the Dunklin County meet, amassing more points than any other girl in the history of the meet. She won first places in the high jump, standing broad jump, baseball throw and shotput, and tied for first place in the running broad jump. She set a new county record in the standing broad jump with a leap of 8 feet 3 3/4 in., and tied with another entrant in setting a new record for the running broad jump with a leap of 16 feet 1 1/4 inches. She tied her own record of 4 feet 8 3/4 inches in the high jump, and placed second in the 50-yard dash.

In the district meet at Sikeston this spring she was high-point girl, winning first places in the 50-yard dash, 60-yard dash, running broad jump and high jump. She set a new record for the district in the high jump by leaping 4 feet 10 1/2 inches. The previous record, made in 1930, was 4 feet 9 3/4 inches.

Miss Douglass is also proficient in other sports. She has played basketball on the main team of the Senath high school for two years. In the Southeast Missouri girls' basketball tournament at Sikeston this spring, she was named on the all-star team.

Her father, T. G. Douglas, is Superintendent of Dunklin County Schools.

MERCHANTS COMMITTEE MEETS MONDAY TO DISCUSS CITY LICENSE TAX

A committee of six, three business men and three members of the City Council met last Monday night with Mayor N. E. Fuchs and P. H. Stevenson, City Clerk, to discuss a revision of the occupation or "merchants' tax" scale here.

Approximately $7200 is raised annually by this method of taxation in Sikeston.

At the first general meeting, May 16, very little opposition to the tax was expressed. Merchants, however, did express an almost unanimous sentiment in favor of "protection" in their respective lines of endeavor.

50 SCOTT COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS TO ATTEND CAMP IRONDALE JUNE 13-16

Fifty boys and girls from Scott County are planning on attending the Southeast Missouri 4-H Club Camp at Irondale the 13th to 16th of June. This will be the largest attendance that Scott County has ever had present at one of the annual camps.

The 4-H Club Camp offers recreation and at the same time they are given instructions on conducting 4-H Club better, and this year will be taken on instructive field trips on Identification of Economic Weeds and Flowers. A specialist from the College of Agriculture will assist them. Those attending from the Sikeston area are: Muriel Dodge, Vera Shelton, Wilma Hargraves, Charles Yanson, John W. Bowman, Stanley Woods, Floyd Woods, Raymond Tomey, Geneva Aldridge and Roberta Aldridge.

Each member attending the camp is being given a white ribbon upon which is printed in green ink, Scott County 4-H Club. The second night at the camp is stunt night, at which time each County puts on a stunt. Miss Arabella Dammeneuller will be in charge of the Scott County stunts.

Warning Issued Against Ancient Swindle

Instructions have been received by W. L. Boggs, relief manager of the local office of Western Union, to protect Sikeston citizens from the operations of a gang of confidence men flooding the country with letters designed to find victims for the old "Spanish prisoner" swindle.

Instead of operating from Spain, as in 1925 and other years, the gang is now in South America. Hundreds of their letters are being received by persons scattered from Georgia to Oregon, with the largest numbers of intended victims being selected in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indiana, Texas, Nebraska, Arizona and New Mexico.

The letters say the writer needs help to care for a 16-year-old daughter and to save a sum of $350,000 on deposit in two banks in the United States. The intended victim is invited to come to South America, pay court costs of the prisoner's bankruptcy trial and receive documents to obtain the money on deposit. For this aid, one-third of the $350,000 is offered. The prisoner cannot receive direct correspondence, so a code telegram addressed to a third party is attached for use if the victim is interested.

A number of these cablegrams have been offered at Western Union offices by intended victims. They include people in all of the nine States named above. Western Union managers, alert to protect the public, tell intended victims of the swindle when they seek to file such cablegrams. Subsequent letters say the South American trip is unnecessary; that by advancing a certain sum the prisoner's release can be obtained, and he and his daughter will then proceed to the United States. If that sum is sent, a third letter requests money to buy steamship tickets. That is the last heard of the "Spanish prisoner".

This scheme has been worked times without mention in previous years before authorities finally became acquainted with the details. While people in this part of the State may not receive any of these letters, there have been a number of them received in Nebraska and Northwestern Kansas.

CORRECTION

The State Highway Patrol is very anxious to have corrected a Tuesday Standard story. New Madrid date line, which stated that D. J. Keller of Cape Girardeau was recovering from the effects of a collision with a patrol motorcycle. Sgt. Rufus Reed notifies The Standard that the machine was operated by a member of the Cape Girardeau squad, and not by a Highway Patrolman. We are very glad to correct this impression.

PHANTOM MIRROR PICTURE WAS IN CITY LAST WEEK-END

While Sikeston and all Southeast Missouri was agog this spring over the LaForge "coffee picture", St. Louis newspapers split their front pages with a similar "phantom" picture which appeared in a mirror at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter.

Thousands of curious doubting Thomases crowded into the small flat, and finally forced the Building Commissioner of the City to stop the daily pilgrimage when he estimated that the unusual amount of weight would crush the building.

The picture causing this crush of humanity was in Sikeston over Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. Carter visited his brother, Clarence Carter and family. They returned to the city Monday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock.

Many friends of the family were allowed to take a look at the mysterious ghost picture, still plainly visible in the small mirror.

LEGION BOYS TURN OUT WEDNESDAY FOR PLANNED ENTERTAINMENT

A new idea in Legion affairs in Sikeston inaugurated last Wednesday evening proved to be a winner. Not only were 75 or 80 Legionnaires and former service men present, but they stayed and called for more. The secret of the successful meeting was a special program of entertainment, a pep talk by Ralph Bailey and refreshments.

Dan G. Pepper, toastmaster and member of a committee of three to work up the first semi-monthly entertainment program, offered a troupe of negro entertainers under the leadership of Harry Goodin.

Here's the program the Legion boys are still talking about: Music—"Johnson Stomp" by Steady Roll, a New Madrid piano artist.

"Once I Lived the life of a Millionaire"—a vocal solo by "Spare Ribs", local smokee buck and wing dancer and singer. "Spare Ribs" followed through with a buck and wing, having Steady Roll stand by with piano accompaniment.

The next number consisted of music and the vocal selection "When Your Hair Is Turned to Silver" by Steady Roll. Members of the committee had to call a halt to the next number, a marathon affair with verses without number. Spare Ribs and Steady Roll took turn about singing verses in a "Tournament of Blues".

Number six on the program was "Girl of My Dreams" by Steady Roll, after which those present enjoyed smokes and light refreshments.

Charman Pepper then informed the gathering that the remainder of the program would be "For men only" and that of course is censored in the press.

The next such planned meeting will be held June 15.

HIGHWAY 55 MATTER SETTLED MAY 26; LET CONTRACT IN JULY

CHILD HIT BY CAR WEDNESDAY

Jimmie Hayden, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hayden, was accidentally run down on Malone avenue in front of the John Fox residence Wednesday night about 9:15 o'clock by R. M. Brown, road worker, who with Clark Horne, was enroute from the Highway 60 project between Dexter and Essex, to his temporary home in Benton. Officers and witnesses of the accident were of the opinion that the accident was unavoidable.

The Hayden child and Jerome Fox had started across Malone Avenue, without noticing traffic. Young Fox realized the danger from the approaching car driven by Mr. Brown and stepped out of the way. The Hayden child was knocked down.

Mr. Brown stopped immediately and took the injured child to the office of Dr. T. C. McClure, who rendered emergency treatment. Injuries consist of a long cut on the forehead, scratched right side of the face and minor bruises.

Jimmie's condition was reported as satisfactory Thursday morning. Brown and his companion, Mr. Horne, were allowed to leave for Benton as soon as Dr. McClure treated the child. No charges were filed.

Right-of-way for Route 55 from the Junction with Highway 61 north of Morley to a point south of Chaffee has been acquired, according to information released this week from the local Division 10 office.

All of the suits arising from condemnation proceedings of this right-of-way were settled by agreement between the State Highway Commission, the Scott County Court and property owners affected. The settlement was agreed upon May 26.

Information from the Division office of the State Highway Department is to the effect that plans and specifications have been prepared on this project, and that bids for the construction of this very much needed nine-mile sector will be received by the Commission in the July letting.

The proposed route will be of all-weather, high type gravel construction and will give an adequate outlet to Chaffee, Oran and intermediate communities now served by narrow, winding country roads. As a matter of general information, the road will also serve as a "cut off" for traffic to and from St. Louis. Utilization of this route will save 2.89 miles of travel between Sikeston and St. Louis.

Charge of Murder, Filed Tuesday Against Horace Colley, Slayer of Brother, Oscar, 39, Monday

Benton, June 2.—A charge of murder was filed before Jim Rogers, Justice of the Peace here Tuesday, against Horace "Army" Colley, who Monday morning shot and mortally wounded his brother, Oscar, during an altercation at the home of their mother in Blodgett.

The date for a preliminary hearing was not set, according to M. E. Montgomery, prosecuting attorney, nor was bond established by Colley. He is being held in the county jail.

Burial Service Thursday

Funeral services for Oscar Herbert Colley were conducted at the Mainord Cemetery near Diehlstadt, at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning, June 2, with Rev. J. C. McDaniel officiating. Dempster of Sikeston had charge of the last rites.

The slain man was born February 24, 1893 and died May 30, approximately 10 hours after being shot by his brother.

Colley was the sole witness to the affair which culminated in tragedy. She had asked her son, Oscar, to speak with Horace about the latter's alleged irregularities. This question led to words and finally to the shooting.

Oscar was rushed at once to the Southeast Missouri Hospital by Carl Rickert and Dr. E. F. Nienstedt, both of Blodgett. At 3:40 o'clock, he died. Soon thereafter the remains were brought to the Dempster Funeral Home, Sikeston, where the body was prepared for burial.

According to Mr. Montgomery, Mr. Colley has very little to say about the matter.

Several reliable parties from Blodgett have visited The Standard with stories relative to the tragic affair. "Army", according to one report, is said to have threatened the life of his brother on several occasions, and recently is quoted as having stated "he wanted to do something to get into jail".

Japan has had two prime ministers assassinated inside of a year. That is a disgraceful showing. In America, no one but a kidnaped baby need be genuinely anxious.

The animal-like actions of children are said by a scientist to indicate that the man had a pre-human ancestor. If the conduct of many grown-ups is taken into consideration also, that ancestor must have been the ass and not the ape.

The American delegates to the disarmament conference in Geneva cannot keep their expenses under fifty thousand dollars a month, and will have to come home unless Congress goes to their aid. Regardless of the direction in which one's gaze is turned, the eye beholds suffering.

The Boy Scouts and similar organizations really haven't much to offer in the way of attractions. The Philippine Islands are the ideal boy's land. Over there, three lads who did not pass their exams licked the teacher and got the O. K. of the superintendent of schools.

Smiles are altogether too scarce, and Grant Hinkle, Secretary of State for the State of Washington, should be remembered kindly for lightening a serious article on legislation by referring to the boy who wanted to know how people stuck on the earth before the law of gravitation was passed.

One of the few business enterprises that is flourishing is counterfeiting, there being more bad money afloat now than at any period within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. A government official says that the public is partly to blame, in that it does not scrutinize its cash closely enough. In reply it may be remarked that a man must have some horses to handle, before he can learn much by looking one in the mouth.

Sikeston Standard, $2 per year.

The Standard is right proud of our Judge Frank Van Horne who has been an active member of the County Court for but a few months. He was sworn in just in time to meet many of the vexatious, questions that come before the Court and he has met them in a satisfactory and business-like manner.

We believe we are safe in saying the Doctors of the community are receiving less returns for their labor than any profession or business is mentioned. For humanity's sake they answer calls when there is no money returns. New babies are arriving almost daily and the mother and babe must not be neglected. Few fees are forthcoming for this service, but every attention is given by the attending physician. The same can be said of the Emergency Hospital. The beds are all full and little money to pay nurse, food and surgeon. Without suggestion on the part of anyone, it would be mighty fine if the City Council would contribute the light bill to this hospital and count it on the city account as charity.

The fact that Scott County, and Sikeston especially, have a good rating with their warrants, have caused an influx of people from other counties who have been county charges to move in on us. Just how to cope with a situation of this sort will require some deep thought. The Red Cross cannot help these people, the County Court has its budget exhausted and Sikeston has all she can do to take care of her own.

The United States is not making much headway in getting back the money which was loaned to Europe in war-time, but it seems that Europe is getting a taste of her own no-pay medicine, though perhaps in smaller doses than she prescribed for us. The postoffice report shows that the amount sent across the pond from this country during the past year, in the form of money orders, is less than it has been for almost a decade.

The Standard office was honored Tuesday morning with a visit from Rev. John Ensor, former pastor of the Methodist church in this city, but now of Murray, Ky. He and Mrs. Ensor spent Decoration Day in Sikeston with the family of their son, Wilbur. Rev. Ensor told us that his younger son, Wendel, won the oratorical contest at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., which carried with it a nice sum of money.

The new "65" Convertible Sedan is the most recent addition to the Rockne Six line.

JACK MATTHEWS ACCEPTS NEW ROCKNE SIX CARS

Announcement was made this week by A. Jack Matthews, operator of the Malone Avenue garage by that name, that the new Rockne Six automobile agency had been accepted. The first shipment of cars is slated for this week. Included in the lot is the new convertible sedan on the "65" chassis, latest addition to the Rockne line of motor cars.

The new model is the companion car to the already popular Rockne convertible roadster, announced a few weeks ago, and is one of the first successful "two in one" body types in the low priced field, Mr. Matthews said.

In announcing the new car, Geo. M. Graham, Rockne vice-president, said that it "is the most beautiful car yet produced by Rockne. We have made every effort to produce this model in a variety of appealing colors in keeping with its sport appearance. Yet this car is not a sportmodel only as the sturdiness of its convertible design permits its use in all types of weather, warm and cold, without the discomforts found in many cars of the convertible type."

Familiar Foods in New Guise

By FREDERIC FRANCOIS GUILLOT
Chef, Hotel Astor, New York City

FREQUENTLY the most commonplace dish can be given an added appetite appeal by some slight variation in the method of preparation. Sometimes no more seasonings — a little sugar along with the salt and pepper, for instance, to restore the garden freshness of vegetables. Again, the result may be obtained by the combination of two or more familiar ingredients.

In the secret of achieving such escapes from the ordinary routine lies many a famous cook's reputation for supreme excellence in the culinary art. The housewife who recognizes the value of this secret, and gives it practical application in her kitchen, is well on the road to establishing a similar reputation in her own circle.

An Inexpensive Meat Dish

by Jane Rogers

AMERICA has become a nation of meat eaters with beef, pork, lamb and the other offerings of the butcher forming the main dish around which the heavy meal of the day is built. Because of this, secret lies largely in the types of seasoning used, and the way they are blended to create a harmonious whole.

Salt, pepper, sugar, sage and other standard condiments should be found in every kitchen, and these are all important in turning the expensive cut into a delicious dish. Everyone is familiar with the seasoning qualities of salt and pepper and most of the other standard bys. The sugar is a recent discovery of culinary experts, although it has been used by continental chefs and housewives for many years. It functions, not as a sweetener, but to "blend" and point up the other flavors.

Here is one meat dish, made from inexpensive cuts, that provides a tasty offering calculated to please the entire family.

Meat Mound

1 lb. round steak ground
1/2 lb. pork ground
2 can tomatoes
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
pinch of sage
1 small onion minced

Mix onions, sugar, sage, tomatoes salt and meat until well blended. Shape in a mound and place in a roaster. Cover top with four or five strips of bacon. Place in an oven about 375 degrees for one hour. Remove top of roaster the last fifteen minutes and increase heat.

the family meat bill is a problem for the thrifty housewife.

Yet it need not be a difficult problem to solve, for the most inexpensive meat cuts can be turned into tasty dishes which will satisfy the most exacting epicure. There is nothing mysterious about the preparation of these cheaper cuts. The

"SOUNDING BRASS AND TINKLING CYMBALS"

We heard State Senator Roy McKittrick deliver a speech here last Friday afternoon that from an oratorical standpoint was very pleasing. But when that said it's all said. Almost any Democrat can get a kick out of hearing a fluent and ready talker point out the Republican failures and chide them about it, but the next election is not going to be won by Democrats if they rely for success solely upon the mistakes of the opposition. The party has first got to have the right kind of men to win with—men who stand for something and men whose records square with their words.

If representative government which is yet comparatively young as governments go, is saved by and for the people, it will be done by the people themselves voting for officers who stand up for the common people when elected just as strong as when seeking office. Senator McKittrick has a record that shows he isn't this kind.

In his speech he pointed to the ever increasing cost of government and denounced it. He inveighed against useless boards and bureaus and said they ought to be abolished. He censured the protective tariff and showed how it cut off our export trade and moved factories to foreign countries. He sympathized with the million and more farmers who have been driven from their homes by foreclosures. He deplored the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few men like Mellon, Ford and others.

All of this, as we have said, was fine to listen to and if Senator McKittrick's record jibed with his talk, he would be a fine man for the people who believe in a fair distribution of wealth and a square deal, to get behind. But unfortunately his record doesn't do this. He is a member of the State Senate and served during the last session. His vote on the income tax measure that came before the Senate was the same as Mr. Mellon and Mr. Ford and other billionaires would have cast had they been members of that body. In spite of the fact that after proof had been obtained showing that farms, town and city property representing only about a fifth of the wealth of the State was paying over eighty per cent of the taxes, Senator McKittrick voted against the income tax bill. In other words, his vote was cast for the wealth of the State and not for the overwhelming majority of the people. So far as his vote was concerned, he in substance said to the owners of stocks, bonds and mortgages which represents much of the intangible wealth—go ahead and dodge the taxes you ought to pay—let the farmers and the merchants and the fellows who have property that everybody can see, continue to be soaked for more than their share.

Search his record from the time the Senate met and it will show that Senator McKittrick lined up with the Buford, Brogan, Casey crowd on every important measure that came before the Senate. Casey and Buford and Brogan, the triumvirate, who during the Baker administration, bolted a party caucus and went over bag and baggage into the camp of the Republicans and helped them whitewash a penitentiary scandal that was so heavily charged with graft, favoritism and conspiracy to defraud the State, that it was nothing short of a travesty on justice.

But the wing in the Senate headed by these party bolters seems to have suited Senator McKittrick for the vote to give Senator Casey not only the highest official position the Senate could bestow but also the most powerful one, that of president pro tempore, which carries with it the right to appoint all committees of that body.

When the Senator in his perorations here, held up the Democratic party as the star of hope for the millions of people who are tax burdened and fighting for a chance to earn an honest living, we couldn't help but wonder what hope a party managed by fellows like he and Casey and Buford and Brogan could hold out to these people. We thought of the time when they all fought to keep wealth from paying its just and fair proportion of taxes. We thought of the time three years ago when

Unaccustomed As I Am—

I'll never forget the first battle the Indianapolis Classic and picked him "Mona Lisa", because he was always on the canvas.

His opponent was Sloppy Joe, whose ears looked as though they were from a jar of mixed pickles. He was a two-handed fighter . . . in a hive of bees.

Sloppy's father was a buck private in the Boer War, so Sloppy fought a boring battle. The crowd never hissed him because they were all asleep after the first round.

Sloppy later died in the Boxer Rebellion, which was held in Madison Square Garden against the promoters.

Well, the Indianapolis Speed Classic was an utter flop, not a driver was killed. Billy Arnold, who set the pace through the earlier part of the race, crashed his car and was injured. Other than this and a few broken crank shafts the race was a flop, sez me.

I was told that Doc Brinkley, the transplantation specialist, got started into business by attending up the odd bits of anatomy ing up the odd bits of anatomy scattered about the track.

George Moriarty, the American League umpire, knocked Milt Gaston down for a long and slumberous count at Cleveland the other day.

I thought the day had passed when the umpire had to be the bravest man in the township. This reminded me of a few times at the old Fairground Park in Sikeston.

The boys were rolling the bones down at the garage, and another group was en route to join them at the game of chance. When about fifty feet from their destination, a black cat chanced to pass in front of the group. One boy, of a superstitious nature, refused to go on. He insisted on walking around the block and not cross the bad luck path. They did.

When they finally arrived, they found that a raid was just forming as they considered walking behind the black cat, and by walking

Casey and Buford and Brogan fought to maintain an interest rate of 42 per cent for the loan sharks of the cities. Thinking thus we thought of the scripture reference to sounding brass and tinkling cymbals, and how appropriately it would apply in this case.

Senator McKittrick was elected from a country district. Even if a sense of justice and fairness did not impel him to vote to lighten the tax burden on farms and homes and stores and shops, loyalty to the interests of those who elected him should have suggested it. But he turned his back upon them. He was, it seems, led to the mountain top by the emissaries representing the wealth of the cities and there had pointed out to him a roseate political future if he would bow down and do the bidding of wealth. His record indicates that he bowed. Now he is traveling throughout the length and breadth of the State, sympathizing with the down trodden farmers, laborers and the men who are looking for a job and asking them to send him up high-ing.

If there is a farmer in the State who knowing his record votes to give him more power he ought to be tapped for the simpies. They should tell him to look for his support to the bondholders and speculators who toil not, but gather in tax exempt shekels.—Bloomfield Vindicator.

BEER DUMPED INTO CREEK
KILLS THOUSANDS OF FISH

Cape Girardeau, May 31.—Thousands of dead fish are floating in Apple Creek, north of here, into which nearly 6000 gallons of what prohibition agents said was beer, were dumped by officers after a raid on a brewery at Old Appleton last Thursday. Game wardens are investigating to determine whether the stream had been dynamited.

JUDGE E. COCKRELL
FILES FOR CONGRESS

Former Circuit Judge Ewing Cockrell of Warrensburg announced in Washington Monday that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congressman at large.

Cockrell was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in 1926 against Senator Harry B. Hawes, but was defeated for the nomination by approximately 57,000.

If nominated and elected to Congress Cockrell said he would work for legislation to prevent crime, make more business, shorten the hours of labor, give relief to the farmers and to inject more of the golden rule into national and international affairs.

"Five years ago," said Cockrell, "I advocated co-operation between the wets and drys to put into effect the improvements they agreed upon to better the liquor situation."

He added he believed co-operative steps by wets and drys to solve the liquor problem are practicable.

Over in London, according to the press, a rich woman's cocktail party ends in killing. They are plenty frequent in this country.

New Madrid County School Notes

By Milus R. Davis

All rural teachers have turned in their term reports, but some high school districts are out yet. Special aid for opportunity rooms should be requested before August 1. These rooms are for show pupils not able to do good third grade work, also for those with defective sight and hearing.

We are separating the railroad and utility taxes this year, giving each fund its share which is provided by law. The portion that is set aside for teachers and incidentals only should be used in making application for State aid. If all the railroad tax is used, the State aid will be reduced. Our county has been losing about $5000 in State aid each year by counting all this tax for teachers' fund when estimates for State aid are made.

In other words, the part of railroad money set aside for interest, sinking and building funds will be replaced by State aid, as it reduces the anticipated revenue for school purposes.

In figuring special aid, the State first estimates the amount a district will receive for teachers and incidentals from all other sources and then apportions enough special aid to bring the total up to the specifier guarantee.

We are checking rural applications closely to see that they get all that is coming to them, and we will gladly do the same for high school districts if mailed to us before filing.

It will soon be time for flag-pole agents, etc., to begin to swarm and rural school boards should avoid them. If supplies are needed, the teacher can sit down when not under pressure and select from the catalog of some reliable firm.

We plan to see that all clerks receive catalogs from a few reliable and reasonable firm such as A. Flanagan, E. W. A. Rowles, and Beckley Cardy, all of Chicago.

During vacation the board should see that all necessary repair work is done, flues cleaned and bad stove pipe replaced. Sanitary toilet should be provided, and the school room should present a neat appearance when school opens. Work should be let out by bids, striving to get good service at low cost. Make every dollar count.

We will visit school a few days after it opens to help in selecting books and instructional material.

CHARLESTON LOSES TO WEST FRANKFORT, 2-1

Charleston, May 29.—The Charleston Cardinals lost a hard fought game to the West Frankfort, Ill., team here today, 2-1. This is the first loss for the locals in five starts.

Mercer of West Frankfort struck out 12 batters and allowed only four hits. Ault of Charleston struck out 5 men and allowed 5 hits. The Charleston team committed 3 miscues, two of which sided in the scoring. Mercer issued four free tickets to first and Ault only gave two bases on balls.

The Cardinals drew the first blood, scoring the only run in the first inning. Schuh hit the first ball pitched for right field for a single. Gore walked and Kimsey duplicated the feat. Miller singled over short, Schuh scoring. At this stage of the game, Hiduk was retired, Mercer pitching the remainder of the game.

The West Frankfort team scored first in the fifth, Stirtz singled, Smothers flied out, Stirtz going to second after the catch, and then scoring on Woods single. In the seventh, West Frankfort scored the winning run when Wilson got on through an error. Stirtz forced Wilson at second, Smothers bunted to Ault, who made a low throw to second, both runners being safe. Woods singled again to score Stirtz. This ended the scoring of the day for both of the teams.

The pitchers were helped by three double plays, Charleston making two of them. West Frankland to Woods to Wilson. Hudson made one double play unassisted and the other one was Hudson to Gore.

CHAPTER IV

"Aw, Mike, shut up. What have you got to cry for?"

Mary Thomas, wife of Mike Thomas, the chauffeur and mother of young Mike, held the squawling youngster up in her arms, in a gesture very like that of disgust made by Lil Baker when she heard the crying of the child—and which she could still hear. Mary was a sweet-faced little blonde, with a fine figure, now almost concealed by a sort of loose, reddish kimono which she wore. Her eyes were blue, her lips finely molded and naturally red.

She lowered her baby and cuddled it against her breast, looking over its head and speaking—partly to the child, perhaps, but more to herself.

"Shut up, you little devil. You've got more than any baby in the world. The grandest father in the world—a great, big, fine, tall man with a grin on him that would take the heart out of any woman."

She began to rock the baby whose attention was attracted by the swing of the lockets around her neck on a chain. It grabbed the lockets and stopped crying while Mary continued with that monologue which was half thought, half speech.

"And a home that's a palace. Four great big rooms. Think of it, Mike! Four rooms and a real bathtub and a gas stove. Oh, gee, we're lucky! And she gave the baby an extra hug. Her face lighted up with an inexpressible beauty when she heard her husband's footsteps in the outer hallway. "Mike!" she cried, springing up. "Here's your daddy coming home, Mike."

She was at the door to meet him, and Mike swept wife and child into one big embrace.

"You're late, Mike."

"Yeah, Old man Schultz wanted me to taste some beer he was making. Gee! you look sweet, honey. Give us a kiss."

She laughed, he laughed; and their lips met in a long kiss while the baby in her arms chattered. Mary was not laughing when she drew away from her husband's passionate kiss. She was flushed and somewhat breathless.

"Oh, Mike, you mustn't kiss me like that."

"Why not?" he laughed, glancing at the baby. "He's nearly a year old. Say, I brought him a present."

Mike Thomas picked up the paper box he had put on a chair at his entrance, tore off the wrapping paper and took out a child's enamelled pot, with a cat painted in black on one side. He held it up by the handle, grinning rather proudly.

"Oh, Mike! isn't that just the cutest thing?"

"Yeah. It's sure a swell teacup."

"Here, Mike, see the grand, present your father brought you. She plumped the baby down in an armchair and gave him the pot to play with. Then Mike placed his hands on Mary's shoulders and swung her around, facing him.

"Gee, when I think of the dames I have to run around in my cab all night—and then you home here, so sweet and clean—" He pulled her closer to him. He looked up, a teasing smile in his eyes.

"Old man Schultz must make pretty strong beer."

"Beer?" scoffed Mike. "It's you—your sweetness—" He broke off and kissed her hard and long.

"Behave, you handsome Irishman, you!" cried Mary, struggling out of his arms. "Come and eat your breakfast. Oh, look!"

He followed the direction of her gaze and joined his laughter with hers. The baby, with the pot over one ear, was looking solemnly up at them, very well pleased with himself. Their loud mirth caused the sharpened suddenly; his eyes began to show anger.

Mary replied demurely, "I'm not alone all the time."

"You're not! Who's been with you?"

"He didn't tell me his name," replied Mary, a smile of mischief playing about her mouth as she turned from Mike to conceal her face.

"He didn't what—what d'you mean?"

"Well, I couldn't seem to get rid of him."

"Who was he? What did he look like?"

"Oh, terribly handsome. Curly hair, blue eyes—"

"He'll have black eyes when I get to him!" cried Mike, jealously.

"What did he do?"

"Well, he got kind familiar—"

"Did he kiss you?"

"No," said Mary solemnly. "He—he bit me."

Mike sprang up with an exclamation of rage, letting the baby fall flat on his back on the table. "I'll kill him! That's what I'll do! I'll kill him!"

Mary laughed in his face. "You won't do anything of the kind. You'll pick him up and hand him over to me," and she pointed at the baby.

A sheepish grin spread over Mike's face as his eyes followed Mary's hand pointing to the baby. "Oh, him."

"Yes, 'Oh, him,'" said Mary, putting her hands on his shoulders.

"Why, Mike, you jealous fool, there isn't anybody in the world but you. There never could be."

"O, and also K," said Mike, relief showing through the sheepish grin still on his face.

It was later the same day, in the newly rented apartment next to that occupied by Mike Thomas, his wife and baby. Judge Moffett was marching angrily up and down the wretchedly furnished living room, spluttering as he walked.

"Phoning me to come here, at a time like this! What's the use of putting you in a hideout and then leading them here? Calling me up and saying it was urgent and for me to get here right away!" He stopped his angry pacing and turned directly to her. "And then what do I find when I get here? You just don't like the place! It's a dump!" He mimicked Lil's voice. "The hot water doesn't work and the place smells of onions. And there's a baby next door that cries and hurts your little ears! And I suppose you'd like to have an elevator put in the building so you won't have to walk up and down two flights of stairs!"

Lil, abashed at his vehemence and seeing that she must coax him into a better humor, placed her arms about his neck.

"But that wasn't the real reason."

"Well, what was then?"

"I was homesick," she looked up at him, making her eyes soft and pleading. "I wanted you—to be held tight—" She rubbed her cheek softly against his face, took his arm and placed it about her waist. "You mustn't blame me for wanting you!"

Judge Moffett's anger began to melt before the tempting mouth so close to him. He put both arms about her and started to draw her close when he suddenly looked out of the window.

"Wait a minute. The house across the street has windows, too."

Lil drew out of his arms, a little smile of triumph on her face, and went to the window to lower the shade. It was crooked and stuck a little. To free it she drew aside the curtain and stood for a moment looking down into the street. Then with a little startled gasp she quickly lowered the shade, leaning back against it as though to hold it down as she faced Moffett.

"Come here quick!"

"What is it now?" asked Moffett, striding to her side. She pulled the shade back an inch from window casing and pointed downward.

"There's a man watching this place from across the street."

He pushed her roughly away and peered out, taking great care not to make a noticeable movement of the shade.

"In front of that cigar store across the street," said Lil.

"Yes, I see him. He's starting up this way. Why, that's Madigan! He drew away from the window with a startled exclamation.

"Who's Madigan?"

"He's a private detective. Ten to one he's after me. He turned angrily towards the girl. "You see what you've done! You've played right into Osgood's hands!"

Lil paled at what her boredom had made her do.

"Do you suppose he really followed you here?"

"Oh, no," sneered the Judge. "He just sat in a dark room and looked into a crystal and saw me coming here—that's all! And it's enough, too! You'll have to get out of here. Move. Find another place. And get out without his seeing you go."

He pulled the shade back a trifle and looked out again, while Lil tried to see over his shoulder.

"He's stopping a woman with a baby carriage," said Moffett, "and asking her something. He nods towards this building. She looks directly at this window. Now she's pointing this way. What do you suppose he'd talk to her about?"

"Let me see," said Lil, and almost pushed Moffett aside. "Why, that's the woman who lives next door—the one with the squalling baby that got on my nerves and kept me awake. I saw her taking the baby carriage down this morning. The partition is so thin I can hear almost everything they say to each other—she and her husband who works nights. Only this morning I heard them—he wanted her to be sweet to him," she turned with an arch smile to Moffett.

"Got acquainted with her already, have you?" said Moffett, somewhat savagely. "What could she tell him about you? Tell Madigan, I mean."

"She couldn't tell him anything at all. She's never even seen me. I saw her taking the baby out when I opened the hall door. I didn't want to be seen, so I shut the door all but a crack big enough to get a good peek at her. I wanted to see what she looked like, teasing her husband, and refusing him."

"Well, it's a cinch Madigan is trying to get something on us—one way or another." He walked agitatedly back and forth in silence for a time, trying to think what course to pursue. He went to the window and peered out again.

"He's still talking to her, helping her lift the baby carriage down over the parking. I've got to know what he's talking about to her. You've got to find out for me."

"I can't go out and ask him if he's looking for me, and what he wants of me, just like that," said Lil, with some spirit. "He could look me up and keep asking questions about you until—well, I might say something—"

"Be quiet and let me think." He continued his pacing back and forth. "You'd better go in there and have a talk with her. Find out what Madigan's after—what he's been saying to her."

"What's the good of that? There's nothing she can tell him about me. She doesn't know anything."

"Listen," said Moffett, anxiously. "I tell you we're in a jam. You don't seem to realize it. Judge Osgood was in my court last night when I— Well, never mind. I didn't know about it until today. I've got to watch my step. He's a straight-laced old bird. And you've got to watch your step and do as I tell you. You make up some excuse for getting into that woman's apartment and use your wits to find out what Madigan's been saying to her."

"They heard the door next door shut."

"That's her now," said Lil, par-taking of Judge Moffett's anxiety. "She's home."

"All right. Go on in. I'll wait here until you come back."

Great News About Jackie Cooper's New Picture!
By public demand Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has brought the unique talents of Jackie Cooper, co-starred with "Chic" Sale, to adult audiences!

Following the success of Jackie with Wallace Beery in "The Champ" the producers were urged to select a vehicle which would do full justice to the young star's ever-developing genius before audiences of men and women, as well as children.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in its choice of William Johnston's novel "Limpy", upon which this picture is based, believes it has produced an entertainment of distinct adult dramatic and emotional appeal, while yet achieving a picture which youngsters, too, will acclaim.

Essentially a comedy, the team of Jackie Cooper and "Chic" Sale deliver memorable performances of high humor and heart-warming sincerity.

The trials of this boy are our own trials in life—his fight is our fight—his victory is our victory and we cheer him as we see ourselves in him.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer takes great pride in presenting this offering. It is the kind of picture that warms you all over—the kind of show that makes the screen seem very much worth while—the kind of attraction that causes folks to say: "There's a real picture." We urge you to see

WOMEN FIGHT FOR TWO-BIT DRESSES

The local Buckner-Ragsdale Store Company announced a limited number of dollar dresses as a special last Tuesday morning at nine o'clock, while they lasted for a quarter each.

A surprising, milling, bargain-seeking crowd of women was the answer. The allotment of twenty dozen dresses was gone in twenty minutes. . . members of the sales force later found the upper part of a garment still on the hanger. The skirt part was unaccounted for.

Women packed the building long before the sale hour arrived, and when the word "go" came, first come, first served, proved to be the answer.

Other special items are being announced from time to time by Buckners during the Silver Jubilee Sale.

WORRY—THE DRIVER'S BANE

Mental lapses are a far more important cause of automobile accidents than is commonly believed. While the reports of accidents may give physical causes, such as reckless driving, wrong side of the road, cutting in, etc., those may only be symptoms of a disturbed mental state, asserts Dr. H. J. Stack of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, who says:

"Extreme hurry or worry causing intense preoccupation, fatigue, elation, or excitement, or slowed down reaction as a result of the indulgence in alcohol or other narcotics may be behind an accident. Many of these mental conditions are within our control." He suggests the following precautions as preventative:

1. Take a short rest or let someone else drive the car when you have been driving for a long period at night.

2. Be especially alert when hurrying to work so that you can keep your mind on your driving.

3. The best place for the confirmed back-seat driver is at home.

4. Don't day dream driving a car or crossing the street.

5. Control your temper. If the traffic officer calls you down, probably you deserve it.

6. If you have a superiority complex, forget it when you get behind the steering wheel.

7. Don't become a speed maniac. This mental disorder is serious and contagious. A serious accident seems to be the only cure for its victims.

THEIR TIN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

It has been ten years since Bob and Helen were married. Ten times the snows have spread their glistening white velvet over the frozen brown earth. Ten times the forsythias have shaken their golden bells briskly at the first, faint call of spring. Ten times the gardeners have blazed with color beneath the summer sun, and shivered in frigid winds of autumn.

There have been ten Christmases and ten Thanksgivings. Ten times they have wished each other "Happy New Year" over the clamor of bells and whistles. Ten times the cape and fire crackers have snapped and sputtered to celebrate "The Glorious Fourth."

Good Years and Bad Years

There have been good years and bad years—the wonderful year when young Robert arrived; the year that Bob's business failed—that was a dreadful year—the difficult, delightful year they bought the house.

Helen has forgotten that she prefers Orange Pekoe tea—Bob does so enjoy his cup of Ceylon that he comes home early, and it seems silly to have two kinds of tea for just two people.

Bob doesn't mind at all if Helen hums a tune while he is reading his newspaper—in fact he would miss it if she didn't, though for the first year it nearly drove him distracted.

"Ten years are a long time, Bob," muses Helen.

"Yes they are, Helen," he says, and smiles.

"He is just as good looking as ever," thinks Helen, "and I do like the way his hair grows in the back."

"Helen is as fine as they come," thinks Bob, "and all the prettier for those five pounds she is making such a fuss about."

"It is sweet of them to give us a party," continues Helen, "but, Bob, what shall we do with the awful tin things they will bring us?"

"Tin?"—queries Bob.

"Yes, tin, stupid! It's your Tin Wedding Anniversary—didn't you smart little cans of caviar—Helen loves caviar.

"Bob, do come and look," but before he has a chance to even so much as glance at the labels, Frank Lane arrives with six cans of delicious Hawaiian pineapple—pineapple is Bob's weakness.

On his heels comes Herbert with his new little Mexican bride, who presents rather shyly one of her much loved native dishes, chili con carne, in a tin, of course.

Cans Galore!

Grandfather Hot-elm, kept at home by a severe cold, is next represented by a small messenger boy staggering under the weight of a wooden box filled with cans of strawberries, cherries, peaches, pears, figs, plums, apricots and every delectable sort of fruit.

Edith, who went to school with Helen, brings cans of sardines and deviled chicken in memory of surreptitious schoolyard feasts. The Allen's gift is cans of wine fruit salad and anchovy paste. Tom Leonard, Bob's particular chum, comes fairly groaning under cans of squab and whole roast chicken, cans of shad roe and green turtle soup. He is a gourmet, and a man who lives up to his principles.

The Supper

Last to arrive is sensible, thoughtful Aunt Katherine, and with her she brings the Anniversary Supper itself ready to eat, with the aid of a can opener and a few minutes of heating.

Fruit Cup

Lobster Newburg

Boston Brown Bread

Vacuum Packed Nuts

Fruit Cake

The last guest has departed.

"What are you going to do with these dreadful tin things?" asks Bob with a twinkle in his eye.

"Bob," says Helen solemnly, "some one of our friends is awfully clever—and nice."

Cantley Quits Post of Finance Commissioner

S. L. Cantley, State Finance Commissioner, announced in St. Louis last night that he will tender his resignation to Gov. Caulfield today and qualify as receiver for the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank. The Federal Farm Loan Board appointed him receiver yesterday to take immediate charge of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank as a result of the latter's failure to pay June 1 interest.

THE EDITOR SAYS—

T. A. Penman of New Madrid County is in the race for State Senator from this, the 23d District. He has been a county judge in his home county and represented his county in the State Legislature the last two terms. He is a man of impeccable character, a farmer by profession, a college graduate, and just the sort of man to represent this District. This is no time to put forward any man of any party for any office who is not 100 per cent sound, and in Judge Penman we have just such a man, one who will look after the interests of Southeast Missouri at all times.

It was a terrible thing that prohibition agents did to the Fish in Apple Creek, Cape Girardeau County, when they poured 6000 gallons of beer into that pure stream and bushes of fish were picked or paralyzed. Why didn't they call in 48,000 of us human fish and give us a pint each and save the finny fish and made so many people feel pleasant during the depression. Something ought to be done about this.

There is a very expressive bill on the board opposite The Standard office. It is a great big bull rearing to go, with head up and snorting. Over the fence is a meek looking cow gazing at her boy friend with the word overhead "Her Hero".

George Buchanan has announced as a candidate for County Judge the First District, subject to the Democratic primary. Mr. Buchanan is not a stranger to the duties of the office nor to the voters of the District as he has filled the office before with dignity and credit.

A good many inquiries have been made as to why the front window was out of The Standard office Tuesday. We heard Charlie tell an Insurance Man that he threw a collector through the window and smashed the plate glass. The real reason was because the glass was badly cracked and was dangerous.

Senator Borah isn't going to the Republican National Convention. This leaves former Senator Dr. Joseph I. France of Maryland, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, the only outstanding figure with anything of sufficient interest to keep the convention awake.

The most noted "lame duck" of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act was the principal co-author, Representative Hawley (Rep., Ore.) himself, who was defeated for re-nomination by his constituents. The fate of some of the most prominent advocates of this trade-wrecking measure has been postponed until November.

We have been asked what becomes of the movie stars when they get too old to act. We can't say for certain but from the number of times some of them are wed, the women must open beauty parlors and keep on acting and the men speakies and keep on drinking.

J. M. Buchanan is in charge of the Hole-in-the-Wall greasewood doughnut shop adjoining the Sparks barber shop on the corner. The place has been scrubbed from end to end and the interior decorated with white enamel the better to keep it clean and sanitary. Scents keep out the flies and an electric cooker permits him to turn out doughnuts on short notice.

The "best minds" of high finance, rather dazed, read Gov. Roosevelt's recent speeches about "the forgotten man" and the need of a new kind of government system. They asked, "Am I dreaming? Is someone really suggesting that ours is not the ultimate and absolutely perfect government? Is it possible that we might have a radical President? Those best minds will be more puzzled when they learn that the middle west and far west, the farmers tired of wheat selling for 30 cents on the farm, the workers idle, or with pay cut, call Gov. Roosevelt "too old-fashioned and conservative" and demand some "plain speaking". Millions of Americans were as conservative as so many bread puddings while the car, radio, washing machine and bun-galow installments were all paid up. But that has changed, and 1932 edition of a Karl Marx might sell many copies, if the dissatisfied had money to buy them, in spite of the fact that they would not generally understand Marx any more than he would understand them. It will all pass like a dream about falling out of a tree. We shall all climb back into the prosperity tree again. But, how we hate that falling sensation.—Arthur Brisbane.

INQUIRY OF FARM MACHINERY PRICES SOUGHT IN SENATE

Washington, May 28.—An investigation of the price of farm machinery was asked for today in a resolution introduced by Senator Thomas (Rep., Idaho), which was referred to the Agriculture Committee for consideration.

The investigation would cover prices in 1931 and 1932 as compared with previous years and ascertain whether they had declined in proportion to drops in the prices of agricultural products.

With the resolution Thomas submitted a table showing that from 1910 to 1931 machinery price figures rose from 101 to 154, while farm product prices fell from 103 to 80, with a high period over 200 to 1918, 1919 and 1920 but that 147 in 1925 was the highest since.

LITTLE TOMMY ROBERTS TAKES A BAD TUMBLE

Tommy Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Roberts, is recuperating from the effects of a compound fracture of the right arm sustained Wednesday, May 25, when the lad tumbled from a ladder at the Barber boarding house.

Tommy and other children were playing when he slipped from the ladder. He either tried to break the fall with his arm, or was struck when the ladder fell upon him. He is his cheerful self again.

OILING OF STREETS BEGINS THIS WEEK

Sikeston streets were treated to their first seasonal coat of oil, with city workmen under the direction of Lon Swanner doing the "greasing". Roadbeds were first scarified, then bladed and dragged before oil was applied.

Up to Thursday noon, sections of College, Dorothy, Scott, Ruth, Delmar, Kathleen, North New Madrid, Tanner and North Streets had been oiled.

Application for street oil should be made at once, either to Mr. Swanner direct or filed with P. H. Stevenson, City Clerk.

One-Girl Track Team From Senath Seeks Place at Olympic Games

Senath, Mo., May 30.—Chances of Lucille Douglass, Senath high school student and outstanding feminine athlete in Southeast Missouri, for winning a place on the United States Olympic team this year are considered good.

Already she has been successful in one qualifying Olympic meet held at Columbia, Mo., in May, and she plans to compete in another to be held in St. Louis in June. In the meet at Columbia she entered the high jump, and her winning high jump of 5 feet 1 1/4 inches came within a quarter of an inch of the American record for women, and greater than her own height. Her winning broad jump was 17 feet 5 inches.

By winning at Columbia, she qualified to participate in the nation tryouts for the U. S. Olympic team to be held in Chicago in July.

A sophomore and 16 years old, Miss Douglass has won many honors. In the Dunklin County high school track meet in 1931, she won four first places, set two new county records and tied for one, and was high point girl of the meet. In the district meet held at Sikeston the same year, she won two first places.

This year she was again high point girl of the Dunklin County meet, amassing more points than any other girl in the history of the meet. She won first places in the high jump, standing broad jump, baseball throw and shotput, and tied for first place in the running broad jump. She set a new county record in the standing broad jump with a leap of 8 feet 3 1/4 in., and tied with another entrant in setting a new record for the running broad jump with a leap of 16 feet 1 1/4 inches. She tied her own record of 4 feet 8 1/4 inches in the high jump, and placed second in the 50-yard dash.

In the district meet at Sikeston this spring she was high-point girl, winning first places in the 50-yard dash, 60-yard dash, running broad jump and high jump. She set a new record for the district in the high jump by leaping 4 feet 10 1/4 inches. The previous record, made in 1930, was 4 feet 9 1/4 inches.

Miss Douglass is also proficient in other sports. She has played basketball on the main team of the Senath high school for two years. In the Southeast Missouri girls' basketball tournament at Sikeston this spring, she was named on the all-star team.

Her father, T. G. Douglas, is Superintendent of Dunklin County Schools.

MERCHANTS COMMITTEE MEETS MONDAY TO DISCUSS CITY LICENSE TAX

A committee of six, three business men and three members of the City Council met last Monday night with Mayor N. E. Fuchs and P. H. Stevenson, City Clerk, to discuss a revision of the occupation or "merchants' tax" scale here.

Approximately $7200 is raised annually by this method of taxation in Sikeston.

At the first general meeting, May 16, very little opposition to the tax was expressed. Merchants present, however, did express an almost unanimous sentiment in favor of "protection" in their respective lines of endeavor.

50 SCOTT COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS TO ATTEND CAMP IRONDALE JUNE 13-16

Fifty boys and girls from Scott County are planning on attending the Southeast Missouri 4-H Club Camp at Irondale the 13th to 16th of June. This will be the largest attendance that Scott County has ever had present at one of the annual camps.

The 4-H Club Camp offers recreation and at the same time they are given instructions on conducting 4-H Club better, and this year will be taken on instructive field trips on Identification of Economic Weeds and Flowers. A specialist from the College of Agriculture will assist them. Those attending from the Sikeston area are: Muriel Dodge, Vera Shelton, Wilma Hargraves, Charles Yanson, John W. Bowman, Stanley Woods, Floyd Woods, Raymond Toney, Geneva Aldridge and Roberta Aldridge.

Each member attending the camp is being given a white ribbon upon which is printed in green ink, Scott County 4-H Club. The second night at the camp is stunt night, at which time each County puts on a stunt. Miss Arabella Dammueiller will be in charge of the Scott County stunts.

Warning Issued Against Ancient Swindle

Instructions have been received by W. L. Boggs, relief manager of the local office of Western Union, to protect Sikeston citizens from the operations of a gang of confidence men flooding the country with letters designed to find victims for the old "Spanish prisoner" swindle.

Instead of operating from Spain, as in 1925 and other years, the gang is now in South America. Hundreds of their letters are being received by persons scattered from Georgia to Oregon, with the largest numbers of intended victims being selected in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indiana, Texas, Nebraska, Arizona and New Mexico.

The letters say the writer needs help to care for a 16-year-old daughter and to save a sum of $350,000 on deposit in two banks in the United States. The intended victim is invited to come to South America, pay court costs of the prisoner's bankruptcy trial and receive documents to obtain the money on deposit. For this aid, one-third of the $350,000 is offered. The prisoner cannot receive direct correspondence, so a code telegram addressed to a third party is attached for use if the victim is interested.

A number of these cablegrams have been offered at Western Union offices by intended victims. They include people in all of the nine States named above. Western Union managers, alert to protect the public, tell intended victims of the swindle when they seek to file such cablegrams. Subsequent letters say the South American trip is unnecessary; that by advancing a certain sum the prisoner's release can be obtained, and he and his daughter will then proceed to the United States. If that sum is sent, a third letter requests money to buy steamship tickets. That is the last heard of the "Spanish prisoner".

This scheme has been worked times without mention in previous years before authorities finally became acquainted with the details. While people in this part of the State may not receive any of these letters, there have been a number of them received in Nebraska and Northwestern Kansas.

CORRECTION

The State Highway Patrol is very anxious to have corrected a Tuesday Standard story, New Madrid date line, which stated that D. J. Keller of Cape Girardeau was recovering from the effects of a collision with a patrol motorcycle. Sgt. Rufus Reed notifies The Standard that the machine was operated by a member of the Cape Girardeau squad, and not by a Highway Patrolman. We are very glad to correct this impression.

PHANTOM MIRROR PICTURE WAS IN CITY LAST WEEK-END

While Sikeston and all Southeast Missouri was agog this spring over the LaForge "coffee picture", St. Louis newspapers split their front pages with a similar "phantom" picture which appeared in a mirror at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carter.

Thousands of curious doubting Thomases crowded into the small flat, and finally forced the Building Commissioner of the City to stop the daily pilgrimage when he estimated that the unusual amount of weight would crush the building.

The picture causing this crush of humanity was in Sikeston over Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. Carter visited his brother, Clarence Carter and family. They returned to the city Monday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock.

Many friends of the family were allowed to take a look at the mysterious ghost picture, still plainly visible in the small mirror.

LEGION BOYS TURN OUT WEDNESDAY FOR PLANNED ENTERTAINMENT

A new idea in Legion affairs in Sikeston inaugurated last Wednesday evening proved to be a winner. Not only were 75 or 80 Legionnaires and former service men present, but they stayed and called for more. The secret of the successful meeting was a special program of entertainment, a pep talk by Ralph Bailey and refreshments.

Dan G. Pepper, toastmaster and member of a committee of three to work up the first semi-monthly entertainment program, offered a troupe of negro entertainers under the leadership of Harry Goodin.

Here's the program the Legion boys are still talking about: Music—"Johnson Stomp" by Steady Roll, a New Madrid piano artist.

Once I Lived the life of a Millionaire—a vocal solo by "Spare Ribs" local mokey buck and wing dancer and singer.

Spare Ribs followed through with a buck and wing, having Steady Roll stand by with piano accompaniment.

The next number consisted of music and the vocal selection "When Your Hair Is Turned to Silver" by Steady Roll.

Members of the committee had to call a halt to the next number, a marathon affair with verses without number, Spare Ribs and Steady Roll took turn about singing verses in a "Tournament of Blues."

Number six on the program was "Girl of My Dreams" by Steady Roll, after which those present enjoyed smokes and light refreshments.

Chairman Pepper then informed the gathering that the remainder of the program would be "For men only" and that of course is censored in the press.

The next such planned meeting will be held June 15.

HIGHWAY 55 MATTER SETTLED MAY 26; LET CONTRACT IN JULY

CHILD HIT BY CAR WEDNESDAY

Jimmie Hayden, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hayden, was accidentally run down on Malone avenue in front of the John Fox residence Wednesday night about 9:15 o'clock by R. M. Brown, road worker, who with Clark Horne, was enroute from the Highway 60 project between Dexter and Essex, to his temporary home in Benton. Officers and witnesses of the accident were of the opinion that the accident was unavoidable.

The Hayden child and Jerome Fox had started across Malone Avenue, without noticing traffic. Young Fox realized the danger from the approaching car driven by Mr. Brown and stepped out of the way. The Hayden child was knocked down.

Mr. Brown stopped immediately and took the injured child to the office of Dr. T. C. McClure, who rendered emergency treatment. Injuries consist of a long cut on the forehead, scratched right side of the face and minor bruises.

Jimmie's condition was reported as satisfactory Thursday morning. Brown and his companion, Mr. Horne, were allowed to leave for Benton as soon as Dr. McClure treated the child. No charges were filed.

Benton, June 2.—A charge of murder was filed before Jim Rogers, Justice of the Peace here Tuesday, against Horace "Army" Colley, who Monday morning shot and mortally wounded his brother, Oscar, during an altercation at the home of their mother in Blodgett. The date for a preliminary hearing was not set, according to M. E. Montgomery, prosecuting attorney, nor was bond established by Colley. He is being held in the county jail.

Burial Service Thursday

Funeral services for Oscar Herbert Colley were conducted at the Mainord Cemetery near Diehlstadt, at 10:00 o'clock Thursday morning, June 2, with Rev. J. C. McDaniel officiating. Dempster of Sikeston had charge of the last rites.

The slain man was born February 24, 1893 and died May 30, approximately 10 hours after being shot by his brother.

Mother Is Witness

According to a report here, Mrs. Colley was the sole witness to the affair which culminated in tragedy. She had asked her son, Oscar, to speak with Horace about the latter's alleged irregularities. This question led to words and finally to the shooting.

Oscar was rushed at once to the Directors for term expiring 1935, H. E. Reuber and M. M. Beck.

As reported last week, dice had been "found" in the pockets of Joe Sarsar at the weekly luncheon meeting, and a hearing be had. It was suggested that he plead his own defense last Wednesday night. He did so by talking for ten minutes on every other known topic and subject, and was cleared of the charge.

The principal speaker of the evening was Attorney George W. Kirk of Charleston, who spoke on "Where Are We Going?" by outlining the present economic situation, and by stressing the value of service clubs in affecting a solution.

Mr. Chadwick presided during the installation of the following officers: President, John G. Powell; First Vice-President, Harry Young; Second Vice-President, F. D. Lair; Third Vice-President, T. B. Dudley; Secretary-Treasurer, Ralph Anderson; Den Keeper, E. F. Schorle; Lion Tamer, Clay Mitchell; Tail Twister, Duree Medley.

Several reports have been cur-

Right-of-way for Route 55 from the Junction with Highway 61 north of Morley to a point south of Chaffee has been acquired, according to information released this week from the local Division 10 office.

All of the suits arising from condemnation proceedings of this right-of-way were settled by agreement between the State Highway Commission, the Scott County Court and property owners affected. The settlement was agreed upon May 26.

Information from the Division office of the State Highway Department is to the effect that plans and specifications have been prepared on this project, and that bids for the construction of this very much needed nine-mile sector will be received by the Commission in the July letting.

The proposed route will be of all-weather, high type gravel construction and will give an adequate outlet to Chaffee, Oran and intermediate communities now served by narrow, winding country roads. As a matter of general information, the road will also serve as a "cut off" for traffic to and from St. Louis. Utilization of this route will save 2.89 miles of travel between Sikeston and St. Louis.

Charge of Murder Filed Tuesday Against Horace Colley, Slayer of Brother, Oscar, 39, Monday

Benton, June 2.—A charge of murder was filed before Jim Rogers, Justice of the Peace here Tuesday, against Horace "Army" Colley, who Monday morning shot and mortally wounded his brother, Oscar, during an altercation at the home of their mother in Blodgett. The date for a preliminary hearing was not set, according to M. E. Montgomery, prosecuting attorney, nor was bond established by Colley. He is being held in the county jail.

According to Mr. Montgomery, Mr. Colley has very little to say about the matter.

Several reliable parties from Blodgett have visited The Standard with stories relative to the tragic affair. "Army," according to one report, is said to have threatened the life of his brother on several occasions, and recently is quoted as having stated "he wanted to do something to get into jail".

Col. Moore was a native of Charleston having been born there October 26, 1867. He was one of the most prominent men of Southeast Missouri, highly educated, and an active member of the Charleston Methodist church. He was also a prominent farmer, owning large tracts of real estate and at one time was president of the Board of Trustees of the Charleston Bank.

Complete funeral arrangements have not been made, but the services will be conducted at the home Friday afternoon, June 3, and interment will be in the Charleston Cemetery.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Margaret Moore, he is survived by the following children: Mrs. James Thurmond of Washington, D. C., Miss Joella Moore and Lon Stephens Moore of Charleston, and Paul Handy Moore, a nephew whom they had reared from infancy, of St. Louis.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 o'clock at the Canolou Baptist church with Rev. Mrs. Ethel Westbrook officiating. Interment was made in Memorial Park Cemetery, with Albritton service.

Bill Hughes, 49 years old, shot May 19 during an altercation with a neighbor, Bill George, on a farm about 7 miles northeast of the city, was reported to be sinking slowly at the hospital here. For the past twelve days, Mr. Hughes' condition has been critical.

Several reports have been current here relative to the shooting. It has been stated that Hughes first attacked George with a knife. To clear up this matter, a Standard representative interviewed Mr. Hughes Thursday about noon.

"Well, I'll tell you just how it is. When he shot me I didn't have any knife at all. But when he shot me, I pulled my knife this way

Col. Paul B. Moore, prominent lawyer of Charleston, died unexpectedly at his home Thursday morning at 7:15 o'clock, after having been confined to his bed for the past several days suffering from a poisoned system caused by defective teeth.

Col. Moore was a native of Charleston having been born there October 26, 1867. He was one of the most prominent men of Southeast Missouri, highly educated, and an active member of the Charleston Methodist church. Japan has had two prime ministers assassinated inside of a year. That is a disgraceful showing. In America, no one but a kidnapped baby need be genuinely anxious.

The animal-like actions of children are said by a scientist to indicate that the man had a pre-human ancestor. If the conduct of many grown-ups is taken into consideration also, that ancestor must have been the ass and not the ape.

The American delegates to the disarmament conference in Geneva cannot keep their expenses under fifty thousand dollars a month, and will have to come home unless Congress goes to their aid. Regardless of the direction in which one's gaze is turned, the eye beholds suffering.

The Boy Scouts and similar organizations really haven't much to offer in the way of attractions. The Philippine Islands are the ideal boy's land. Over there, three lads who did not pass their exams licked the teacher and got the O. K. of the superintendent of schools.

Smiles are altogether too scarce, and Grant Hinkle, Secretary of State for the State of Washington, should be remembered kindly for lightening a serious article on legislation by referring to the boy who wanted to know how people stuck on the earth before the law of gravitation was passed.

One of the few business enterprises that is flourishing is counterfeiting, there being more bad money afloat now than at any period within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. A government official says that the public is partly to blame, in that it does not scrutinize its cash closely enough. In reply it may be remarked that a man must have some horses to handle, before he can learn much by looking one in the mouth.

Sikeston Standard, $2 per year.

The Standard is right proud of our Judge Frank Van Horne who has been an active member of the County Court for but a few months. He was sworn in just in time to meet many of the vexatious, questions that come before the Court and he has met them in a satisfactory and business-like manner.

We believe we are safe in saying the Doctors of the community are receiving less returns for their labor than any profession or business to be mentioned. For humanity's sake they answer calls when there is no money returns. New babies are arriving almost daily and the mother and babe must not be neglected. Few fees are forthcoming for this service, but every attention is given by the attending physician. The same can be said of the Emergency Hospital. The beds are all full and little money to pay nurse, food and surgeon. Without suggestion on the part of anyone, it would be mighty fine if the City Council would contribute the light bill to this hospital and count it on the city account as charity.

The fact that Scott County, and Sikeston especially, have a good rating with their warrants, have caused an influx of people from other counties who have been county charges to move in on us. Just how to cope with a situation of this sort will require some deep thought. The Red Cross cannot help these people, the County Court has its budget exhausted and Sikeston has all she can do to take care of her own.

The United States is not making much headway in getting back the money which was loaned to Europe in war-time, but it seems that Europe is getting a taste of her own no-pay medicine, though perhaps in smaller doses than she prescribed for us. The postoffice report shows that the amount sent across the pond from this country during the past year, in the form of money orders, is less than it has been for almost a decade.

The Standard office was honored Tuesday morning with a visit from Rev. John Ensor, former pastor of the Methodist church in this city, but now of Murray, Ky. He and Mrs. Ensor spent Decoration Day in Sikeston with the family of their son, Wilbur. Rev. Ensor told us that his younger son, Wendel, won the oratorical contest at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., which carried with it a nice sum of money.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM VANDUSER

Mrs. Morgan Dozier returned to St. Louis, Friday.

Charles Jennings returned from St. Louis Saturday, where he had been in Barnes' Hospital getting treatment for his broken arm.

W. L. Jennings had business in Elsinoire Wednesday and Thursday.

Misses Lois Utage and Angie Woodward spent Sunday in Morley visiting friends.

Clarence Jennings spent Sunday in Morley visiting in the Brasher home.

Louis Watkins is still sick with a stroke.

Mrs. Rachel Ann Pickens has come to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. D. Hale. She formerly lived near Charleston.

Miss Janet Moland of Iowa is visiting her cousins, Misses Dorothy and Marjorie Moland.

The B. Y. P. U. is planning a trip.

Johnnie Eubanks and Albert Pixley were caught here Sunday driving a car without license and they were drinking. Joe Miller went to Benton and got two pistols, rope and someone to help him. Miller held the guns on them while they were being bound. He then declared they were under arrest. Eubanks and Pixley are now in jail at Benton.

SOME HOT SHOTS FROM THE MILAN STANDARD

When it comes to living, money may come first, but it's a lucky citizen who can make it last.

With Europe not paying her debts to us it looks as though we won't have to go to the trouble of canceling them.

Operations in the stock market now cost almost as much as operations in the hospital.

Every now and then you hear a get to the poor house in high.

A few fellows look back on their wedding day as the time their mother quit getting their breakfasts and they started getting their own.

They might try getting prosperity back to the big bankers and letting them pass it on down the line the same way they did hard times.

Another reason why we are not getting along any better is that too many men would rather have a tooth pulled than pay their taxes.

It would be all right to give the devil his dues, but like a good many humans, the devil always wants more than is coming to him.

It would be a fine thing if all wives would remember that keeping a husband in hot water doesn't make him tender.

INSECT SPRAY KEEPS CATS AND DOGS AWAY

The problem of keeping cats and dogs out of flower beds, shrubbery, and in general where they are not wanted, appears solved by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Simply spray the flowers, shrubs, or premises with a dilute nicotine sulphate spray and cats and dogs will avoid them, the department says. The spray is harmless to plants and is very offensive to animals. It is widely used against sucking insects. As cats and dogs have a keener sense of smell than humans, they can smell the spray even when it is applied so thinly that people are unaware of its presence.

Commercial preparations usually contain 40 per cent of nicotine sulphate. Such preparations should be used at the rate of one and one-half teaspoonful to a gallon of water. The spray evaporates and should be renewed after rains, or about once every two weeks in ordinary weather.

The worst political hoax this Hawley-Smoot trade-destroying country has ever known is the tariff guaranteed to bring prosperity.

How will Judge Leonard McMullin sound to you? His name has been filed at Benton as a candidate for Associate Judge of the Scott County Court from the First Division. Mr. McMullin has been a farmer all his life and friends feel confident that his knowledge of the difficulties the farmer has had confronting him for many years will make him a valuable man on the bench. He is a Democrat.

President Hoover apparently is perfectly willing to co-operate with Congress on any and every measure he proposes and also to propose something different from anything Congress proposes.

The U. S. Supreme Court is to review the case of the seven negroes who were sentenced to hang in Alabama for criminally assaulting two white girls. This will give them a life stay until October unless a mob gets them first.

Disgruntled spouses continue to fill the columns with notices to the effect that they will not be responsible for debts contracted by anyone other than themselves. At this time, when economic uplift and confidence are so much needed, why not start a movement to publish a list of names of those who are willing to state that they are ready to pay debts of their own contraction.

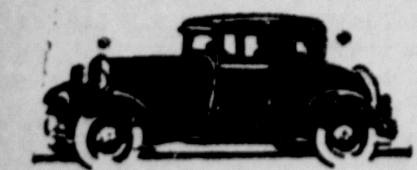

Enthusiastic American women, called by reporters "society women", learn with surprise that Dr. Colvin, of the National Prohibition Committee, describes them as "Bacchantine maidens, parching for wine-wet women, who, like the drunkards whom their program would produce, would take pennies off the eyes of the dead for the sake of legalizing booze". Some that have studied society women in their lairs report no signs of parching. Any genuine "society woman" has money, and anybody with money, according to reliable witnesses, can get everything from a cocktail on through sherry, champagne, claret, burgundy, port and assorted liquors. The president of Radcliffe College for Women, Ada L. Comstock, who never drinks, but opposes prohibition, will be especially interested to learn that she is "parching for wine".—Arthur Brisbane.

THIS FARMER SAVED MONEY
A Farmer saved the price of 100 bushels of corn on a single welding job. A few days ago, a man drove into Hahs Machine Shop with a broken tractor casing in his truck. It just so happened that they were doing a job for another customer exactly the same as his broken part. The man remarked: "When you get thru with that job, I have one for you just like it." They finished the first job and then welded his part at a cost of $8.00. The man stated that this was the second part he had broken this season, in the first instance he didn't imagine it could be welded so he bought a new part costing $28.00. If he had taken the first job to Hahs Machine Shop, he would have saved another $20. Instances like this occur every day. I have mentioned these so that in the future if you have a part broken or worn out, see us before ordering a new part. We will save you money. Adv.

New Addition to Line

The new "65" Convertible Sedan is the most recent addition to the Rockne Six line.

JACK MATTHEWS ACCEPTS NEW ROCKNE SIX CARS

Announcement was made this week by A. Jack Matthews, operator of the Malone Avenue garage by that name, that the new Rockne Six automobile agency had been accepted. The first shipment of cars is slated for this week. Included in the lot is the new convertible sedan on the "65" chassis, latest addition to the Rockne line of motor cars.

The new model is the companion car to the already popular Rockne convertible roadster, announced a few weeks ago, and is one of the first successful "two in one" body types in the low priced field, Mr. Matthews said.

In announcing the new car, Geo. M. Graham, Rockne vice-president, said that it "is the most beautiful car yet produced by Rockne. We have made every effort to produce this model in a variety of appealing colors in keeping with its sport appearance. Yet this car is not a sportmodel only as the sturdiness of its convertible design permits its use in all types of weather, warm and cold, without the discomforts found in many cars of the convertible type".

Familiar Foods in New Guise

By FREDERIC FRANCOIS QUILLOT
Chef, Hotel Astor, New York City

FREQUENTLY the most complicated dish can be given an added appetite appeal by some slight variation in the method of preparation. Sometimes no more is required than a knowledge of seasonings—a little sugar along with the salt and pepper, for instance, to restore the garden freshness of vegetables. Again, the result may be attained by the combination of two or more familiar ingredients.

In the secret of achieving such escapes from the ordinary routine lies many a famous cook's reputation for supreme excellence in the culinary art. The housewife who recognizes the value of this secret, and gives it practical application in her kitchen, is well on the road to establishing a similar reputation in her own circle.

Stuffed Cucumbers—Cut four medium-size cucumbers in half, lengthwise. Cook until tender in boiling, salted water. Scoop out centers and fill with following mixture: one and a half cups cooked rice, three-fourths cup chili sauce, two teaspoons vinegar, two teaspoons tomato ketchup, two teaspoons sugar, one-half teaspoon paprika, salt to taste, and one onion chopped fine and sautéed in two tablespoons butter. Serve very hot.

Tomato au Grouton—Add two tablespoons tapioca to three-fourths cup boiling water and cook in double boiler. Place six or eight whole peeled tomatoes in baking dish. Sprinkle with three-fourths cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Pour tapioca over tomatoes. Melt four tablespoons butter, add one cup coarse bread crumbs, mix well and pour over tomatoes. Bake one hour in slow oven.

An Inexpensive Meat Dish

by Jane Rogers

AMERICA has become a nation of meat eaters with beef, pork, lamb and the other offerings of the butcher forming the main dish around which the heavy meal of the day is built. Because of this, the family meat bill is a problem for the thrifty housewife. Yet it need not be a difficult problem to solve, for the most inexpensive meat cuts can be turned into tasty dishes which will satisfy the most exacting epicure. There is nothing mysterious about the preparation of these cheaper cuts. The secret lies largely in the types of seasoning used, and the way they are blended to create a harmonious whole.

Salt, pepper, sugar, sage and other standard condiments should be found in every kitchen, and these are all important in turning the inexpensive cut into a delicious dish. Everyone is familiar with the seasoning qualities of salt and pepper and most of the other standard cuts. The sugar is a recent discovery of culinary experts, although it has been used by continental chefs and housewives for many years. It functions, not as a sweetener, but to "blend" and point up the other flavors.

Here is one meat dish, made from inexpensive cuts, that provides a tasty offering calculated to please the entire family.

Meat Mound
1 lb. round steak ground
1/2 lb. pork ground
3/4 can tomatoes
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
pinch of sage
1 small onion minced
Mix onions, sugar, sage, tomatoes salt and meat until well blended. Shape in a mound and place in a roaster. Cover top with four or five strips of bacon. Place in an oven about 375 degrees for one hour. Remove top of roaster the last fifteen minutes and increase heat.

Other Church News

The Young People's Foreign Mission Society held its meeting at the church Wednesday evening at 7:30. The regular lesson program was given, with Mrs. Herbert Finney in charge.

The N. Y. P. S. class meeting will be held tonight (Friday) at the church at 7 o'clock. All members of the society are urged to attend this meeting. Visitors are also invited to meet with them. Next Sunday will be special day for Class No. 4 (Young Men's Fellowship Class). Rev. Duncan is teacher and the goal is set for 50 in class for Sunday school. If you are eligible for this class, and not enrolled in any other school in the city, a special invitation is extended to you to come and enroll in the class.

Sunday is also special membership day for the church. Every member of the church is urged to be present and bring with you your sacrifice offering. At 2:30 in the afternoon a baptizing will be held at the Malcolm bridge.

"SOUNDING BRASS AND TINKLING CYMBALS"

We heard State Senator Roy McKittick deliver a speech here last Friday afternoon that from an oratorical standpoint was very pleasing. But when that's said it's all said. Almost any Democrat can get a kick out of hearing a fluent and ready talker point out the Republican failures and chide them about it, but the next election is not going to be won by Democrats if they rely for success solely upon the mistakes of the opposition. The party has first got to have the right kind of men to win with—men who stand for something and men whose records square with their words.

If representative government which is yet comparatively young as governments go, is saved by and for the people, it will be done by the people themselves voting for officers who stand up for the common people when elected just as strong as they pretended to stand for them when seeking office. Senator McKittick has a record that shows he isn't this kind.

In his speech he pointed to the ever increasing cost of government and denounced it. He inveighed against useless boards and bureaus and said they ought to be abolished. He censured the protective tariff and showed how it cut off our export trade and moved factories to foreign countries. He sympathized with the million and more farmers who have been driven from their homes by foreclosures. He deplored the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few men like Mellon, Ford and others.

All of this, as we have said, was fine to listen to and if Senator McKittick's record jibed with his talk, he would be a fine man for the people who believe in a fair distribution of wealth and a square deal, to get behind. But unfortunately his record doesn't do this.

He is a member of the State Senate and served during the last session. His vote on the income tax measure that came before the Senate was the same as Mr. Mellon and Mr. Ford and other millionaires would have cast had they been members of that body. In spite of the fact that after proof had been obtained showing that farms, town and city property representing only about a fifth of the wealth of the State was paying over eighty per cent of the taxes, Senator McKittick voted against the income tax bill. In other words, his vote was cast for the wealth of the State and not for the overwhelming majority of the people. So far as his vote was concerned, he in substance said to the owners of stocks, bonds and mortgages which represents much of the intangible wealth—go ahead and dodge the taxes you ought to pay—let the farmers and the merchants and the fellows who have property that everybody can see continue to be soaked for more than their share.

Search his record from the time the Senate met and it will show that Senator McKittick lined up with the Buford, Brogan, Casey crowd on every important measure that came before the Senate. Casey and Buford and Brogan, the triumvirate, who during the Baker administration, bolted a party caucus and went over bag and baggage into the camp of the Republicans and helped them whitewash a penitentiary scandal that was so heavily charged with graft, favoritism and conspiracy to defraud the State, that it was nothing short of a travesty on justice.

But the wing in the Senate headed by these party bolters seems to have suited Senator McKittick for the vote to give Senator Casey not only the highest official position the Senate could bestow but also the most powerful one, that of president pro tem which carries with it the right to appoint all committees of that body.

When the Senator in his perorations here, held up the Democratic party as the star of hope for the millions of people who are tax burdened and fighting for a chance to earn an honest living, we couldn't help but wonder what hope a party managed by fellows like he and Casey and Buford and Brogan could hold out to these people. We thought of the time when they all fought to keep wealth from paying its just and fair proportion of taxes. We thought of the time three years ago when

Unaccustomed As I Am—

I'll never forget the first battle the Indianapolis Classic and picked him "Mona Lisa," because he was always on the canvas. His opponent was Sloppy Joe, whose ears looked as though they were from a jar of mixed pickles. He was a two-handed fighter in a hive of bees.

Sloppy's father was a buck private in the Boer War, so Sloppy fought a boring battle. The crowd never hissed him because they were all asleep after the first round. Sloppy later died in the Boxer Rebellion, which was held in Madison Square Garden against the promoters.

Well, the Indianapolis Speed Classic was an utter flop, not a driver was killed. Billy Arnold, who set the pace through the earlier part of the race, crashed his car and was injured. Other than this and a few broken crank shafts the race was a flop, sez me.

I was told that Doc Brinkley, the transplantation specialist, got started into business by attending up the odd bits of anatomy scattered about the track.

George Moriarty, the American League umpire, knocked Milt Gaston down for a long and slumberous count at Cleveland the other day.

I thought the day had passed when the empire had to be the bravest man in the township. This reminded me of a few time at the old Fairground Park in Sikeston.

The boys were rolling the bones down at the garage, and another group was en route to join them at the game of chance. When about fifty feet from their destination, a black cat chanced to pass in front of the group. One boy, of a superstitious nature, refused to go on. He insisted on walking around the block and not cross the bad luck path. They did.

When they finally arrived, they found that a raid was just forming as they considered walking behind the black cat, and by walking.

Casey and Buford and Brogan fought to maintain an interest rate of 42 per cent for the loan sharks of the cities. Thinking thus we thought of the scripture reference to sounding brass and tinkling cymbals, and how appropriately it would apply in this case. Senator McKittick was elected from a country district. Even if a sense of justice and fairness did not impel him to vote to lighten the tax burden on farms and homes and stores and shops, loyalty to the interests of those who elected him should have suggested it. But he turned his back upon them. He was, it seems, led to the mountain top by the emissaries representing the wealth of the cities and there had pointed out to him a roseate political future if he would bow down and do the bidding of wealth. His record indicates that he bowed. Now he is traveling through-out the length and breadth of the State, sympathizing with the down trodden farmers, laborers and the men who are looking for a job and asking them to send him up high-ing.

If there is a farmer in the State who knowing his record votes to give him more power he ought to be tapped for the similes. They should tell him to look for his support to the bondholders and speculators who toil not, but gather in tax exempt shekels.—Bloomfield Vindicator.

BEER DUMPED INTO CREEK
KILLS THOUSANDS OF FISH

Cape Girardeau, May 31.—Thousands of dead fish are floating in Apple Creek, north of here, into which nearly 6000 gallons of what prohibition agents said was beer, were dumped by officers after a raid on a brewery at Old Appleton last Thursday. Game wardens are investigating to determine whether the stream had been dynamited.

JUDGE E. COCKRELL
FILES FOR CONGRESS

Former Circuit Judge Ewing Cockrell of Warrensburg announced in Washington Monday that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congressman at large.

Cockrell was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in 1926 against Senator Harry B. Hawes, but was defeated for the nomination by approximately 57,000.

If nominated and elected to Congress Cockrell said he would work for legislation to prevent crime, make more business, shorten the hours of labor, give relief to the farmers and to inject more of the golden rule into national and international affairs.

"Five years ago," said Cockrell, "I advocated co-operation between the wets and dries to put into effect the improvements they agreed upon to better the liquor situation". He added he believed co-operative steps by wets and dries to solve the liquor problem are practicable.

Over in London, according to the press, a rich woman's cocktail party ends in killing. They are plenty frequent in this country.

New Madrid County School Notes

By Milus R. Davis
All rural teachers have turned in their term reports, but some high school districts are out yet. Special aid for opportunity rooms should be requested before August 1. These rooms are for slow pupils not able to do good third grade work, also for those with defective sight and hearing.

We are separating the railroad and utility taxes this year, giving each fund its share which is provided by law. The portion that is set aside for teachers and incidentals only should be used in making application for State aid. If all the railroad tax is used, the State aid will be reduced. Our county has been losing about $5000 in State aid each year by counting all this tax for teachers' fund when estimates for State aid are made.

In other words, the part of railroad money set aside for interest, sinking and building funds will be replaced by State aid, as it reduces the anticipated revenue for school purposes.

In figuring special aid, the State first estimates the amount a district will receive for teachers and incidentals from all other sources and then apportions enough special aid to bring the total up to the specifier guarantee.

We are checking rural applications closely to see that they get all that is coming to them, and we will gladly do the same for high school districts if mailed to us before filing.

It will soon be time for flag-pole agents, etc., to begin to swarm and rural school boards should avoid them. If supplies are needed, the teacher can sit down when not under pressure and select from the catalog of some reliable firm.

We plan to see that all clerks receive catalogs from a few reliable and reasonable firm such as A. Flanagan, E. W. A. Rowles, and Beckley Cardy, all of Chicago.

During vacation the board should see that all necessary repair work is done, fluets cleaned and had stove pipe replaced. Sanitary toilets should be provided, and the school room should present a neat appearance when school opens. Work should be let out by bids, striving to get good service at low cost. Make every dollar count.

We will visit school a few days after it opens to help in selecting books and instructional material.

CHARLESTON LOSES TO WEST FRANKFORT, 2-1

Charleston, May 29.—The Charleston Cardinals lost a hard fought game to the West Frankfort, Ill., team here today, 2-1. This is the first loss for the locals in five starts.

Mercer of West Frankfort struck out 12 batters and allowed only four hits. Ault of Charleston struck out 5 men and allowed 5 hits. The Charleston team committed 3 miscues, two of which sided in the scoring. Mercer issued four free tickets to first and Ault only gave two bases on balls.

The Cardinals drew the first blood, scoring the only run in the first inning. Schuh hit the first ball pitched for right field for a single. Gore walked and Kimsey duplicated the feat. Miller singled over short, Schuh scoring. At this stage of the game, Hiduk was retired, Mercer pitching the remainder of the game.

The West Frankfort team scored first in the fifth, Stirtz singled, Smothers flied out, Stirtz going to second after the catch, and then scoring on Woods single. In the seventh, West Frankfort scored the winning run when Wilson got on through an error, Stirtz forced Wilson at second, Smothers bunted to Ault, who made a low throw to second, both runners being safe. Woods singled again to score Stirtz. This ended the scoring of the day for both of the teams.

The pitchers were helped by three double plays, Charleston making two of them. West Frankland to Woods to Wilson. Hudson made one double play unassisted and the other one was Hudson to Gore.

CHAPTER IV

"Aw, Mike, shut up. What have you got to cry for?"

Mary Thomas, wife of Mike Thomas, the chauffeur and mother of young Mike, held the squawling youngster up in her arms, in a gesture very like that of disquiet made by Lil Baker when she heard the crying of the child—and which she could still hear. Mary was a sweet-faced little blonde, with a fine figure, now almost concealed by a sort of loose, reddish kimono which she wore. Her eyes were blue, her lips finely molded and naturally red.

She lowered her baby and cuddled it against her breast, looking over its head and speaking—partly to the child, perhaps, but more to herself. "Shut up, you little devil. You've got more than any baby in the world. The grandest father in the world—a great, big, fine, tall man with a grin on him that would take the heart out of any woman's passion. She began to rock the baby whose attention was attracted by the baby to move, the pot began to fall off and young Mike whimpered. His mother caught him up in her arms and started for the kitchen.

"Come on, Mike, I'll fix your breakfast."

While she was busy about the stove, Mike played with the baby, glanced at the newspaper which he got from his overcoat pocket.

"Say, Mary, there's something in the paper I want to show you—a swell new way to puree spinach."

At the word "spinach" the baby's lip went down and he began to pucker up his eyes to cry. The parents laughed so heartily that the child changed his mind about crying and began to laugh.

"What you got to do today, Mary?"

"Oh, nothing much. Straighten the flat and mind the baby."

"You don't have much fun—here alone all day with me sleepin'."

"Oh, I'm not alone all the time."

"What's that?" Mike's tone had a better humor, placed her arms about his neck.

"But that wasn't the real reason."

"Well, what was then?"

"I was lonesome." She looked up at him, making her eyes soft and pleading. "I wanted you—to be tight—"

She rubbed her cheek softly against his face, took his arm and placed it about her waist. "You mustn't blame me for wanting you."

Judge Moffett's anger began to melt before the tempting mouth so close to him. He put both arms about her and started to draw her close when he suddenly looked out of the window.

"Wait a minute. The house across the street has windows, too."

Lil drew out of his arms, a little smile of triumph on her face, and went to the window to lower the shade. It was crooked and stuck a little. To free it she drew aside the curtain and stood for a moment looking down into the street. Then with a little startled gasp she quickly lowered the shade, leaning back against it as though to hold it down as she faced Moffett.

"Come here quick!"

"What is it now?" asked Moffett, striding to her side. She pulled the shade back an inch from window casing and pointed downward.

"There's a man over there, peering at you from across the street."

He pushed her roughly away and peered out, taking great care not to make a noticeable movement of the shade.

"In front of that cigar store across the street," said Lil.

"Yes, I see him. He's starting up this way. Why, that's Madigan!"

He drew away from the window with a startled exclamation.

"Who's Madigan?"

"He's a private detective. Ten to one he's after us." He turned angrily towards the girl. "You see what you've done! You've played right into Osgood's hands!"

Lil paled at what her boredom had made her do.

"Do you suppose he really followed you here?"

"Oh, no," sneered the Judge. "He just sat in a dark room and looked into a crystal and saw me coming here—that's all. And it's enough, too! You'll have to get out of here. Move. Find another place. And get out without his seeing you go."

He pulled the shade back a trifle and looked out again, while Lil tried to see over his shoulder.

"He's stopping a woman with a baby carriage," said Moffett, "and bawling her something. He nods towards this building. She looks directly at this window. Now she's pointing this way. What do you suppose he'd talk to her about?"

"Let me see," said Lil, and she pushed Moffett aside. "Why, that's the woman who lives next door—the one with the squalling baby that got on my nerves and kept me awake. I saw her taking the baby carriage down this morning. The partition is so thin I can hear almost everything they say to each other—she and her husband who works nights. Only this morning I heard them—he wanted her to be sweet to him, she turned with an arch smile to Moffett."

"Got acquainted with her already, have you?" said Moffett, somewhat savagely. "What could she tell him about you? Tell Madigan, I mean!"

"She couldn't tell him anything at all. She's never even seen me. I saw her taking the baby out when I opened the hall door. I didn't want to be seen, so I shut the door all but a crack big enough to get a good peek at her. I wanted to see what she looked like, teasing her husband, and refusing him."

"Well, it's a cinch Madigan is trying to get something on us—one way or another. He walked agitatedly back and forth in silence for a time, trying to think what course to pursue. He went to the window and peeked out again.

Mike swept wife and child into one big embrace.

swing of the locket around her neck on a chain. It grabbed the locket and stopped crying while Mary continued with that monologue which was half thought, half speech.

"And a home that's a palace. Four great big rooms. Think of it, Mike! Four rooms and a real bathtub and a gas stove. Oh, gee, we're lucky!"

And she gave the baby an extra hug. Her face lighted up with an inexpressible beauty when she heard her husband's footstep in the outer hallway. "Mike!" he cried, springing up. "Here's your daddy coming home, Mike."

She was at the door to meet him, and Mike swept wife and child into one big embrace.

"You're late, Mike."

"Yeah, Old man Schultz wanted me to taste some beer he was making. Gee! you look sweet, honey. Give us a kiss."

She laughed and laughed; and their lips met in a long kiss while the baby in her arms chattered. Mary was not laughing when she drew away from her husband's passionate kiss. She was flushed and somewhat breathless.

"Oh, Mike, you mustn't kiss me like that."

"Why not?" he laughed, glancing at the baby. "He's nearly a year old. Say, I brought him a present."

Mike Thomas picked up the paper box he had put on a chair at his entrance, tore off the wrapping paper and took out a child's enamelled pot, with a cat painted in black on one side. He held it up by the handle, grinning rather proudly.

"Oh, Mike! isn't that just the cutest thing!"

"Yeah, it's sure a swell teacup."

"Here, Mike, see the grand present your father brought you." She plumped the baby down in an armchair and gave him the pot to play with. Then Mike placed his hands on Mary's shoulders and swung her around, facing him.

"Gee, when I think of the dames I have to run around in my cab all night—and then you home here, so sweet and clean—" He pulled her closer to him. She looked up, a teasing smile in her eyes.

"Old man Schultz must make pretty strong beer."

"Beer?" scoffed Mike. "It's you—your sweetness—" He broke off and kissed her hard and long.

"Behave, you handsome Irishman, you!" cried Mary, struggling out of his arms. "Come and eat your breakfast. Oh, look!"

He followed the direction of her gaze and joined his laughter with hers. The baby, with the pot over his head, was looking solemnly up at them, very well pleased with himself. Their loud mirth caused the sharpened suddenly; his eyes began to show anger.

Mary replied demurely, "I'm not alone all the time."

"You're not? Who's been with you?"

"He didn't tell me his name," replied Mary, a smile of mischief playing about her mouth as she turned from Mike to conceal her face.

"He didn't what—what d'you mean?"

"Well, I couldn't seem to get rid of him."

"Who was he? What did he look like?"

"Oh, terribly handsome. Curly hair, blue eyes—"

"He'll have black eyes when I get to him!" cried Mike, jealously. "What did he do?"

"Well, he got kind familiar—"

"Did he kiss you?"

"No," said Mary solemnly. "He—he bit me."

Mike sprang up with an exclamation of rage, letting the baby fall flat on his back on the table. "I'll kill him! That's what I'll do! I'll kill him!"

Mary laughed in his face. "You won't do anything of the kind. You'll pick him up and hand him over to me," and she pointed at the baby.

A sheepish grin spread over Mike's face as his eyes followed Mary's hand, pointing to the baby. "Oh, him."

"Yes, 'Oh, him,'" said Mary, putting her hands on his shoulders. "Why, Mike, you jealous fool, there isn't anybody in the world but you. There never could be."

"O, and also K," said Mike, relief showing through the sheepish grin still on his face.

It was later the same day, in the newly rented apartment next to that occupied by Mike Thomas, his wife and baby. Judge Moffett was marching angrily up and down the wretchedly furnished living room, spluttering as he walked.

"Phoning me to come here, at a time like this! What's the use of putting you in a hideout and then leading them here? Calling me up and saying it was urgent and for me to get here right away!" He stopped his angry pacing and turned directly to her. "And then what do I find when I get here? A dump! He mimicked Lil's voice. "The hot water doesn't work and the place smells of onions. And there's a baby next door that cries and hurts your little ears! And I suppose you'd like to have an elevator put in the building so you won't have to walk up and down two flights of stairs!"

Lil, abashed at his vehemence and seeing that she must coax him into the street, said Lil.

"Yes, I see him. He's starting up this way. Why, that's Madigan!"

He drew away from the window with a startled exclamation.

"Who's Madigan?"

"He's a private detective. Ten to one he's after us." He turned angrily towards the girl. "You see what you've done! You've played right into Osgood's hands!"

"He's still talking to her, helping her lift the baby carriage down over the parking. I've got to know what he's talking about to her. You've got to find out for me."

"I can't go out and ask him if he's looking for me, and what he wants of me, just like that," said Lil, with some spirit. "He could lock me up and keep asking questions about you until—well, I might say something."

"Be quiet and let me think." He continued his pacing back and forth. "You'd better go in there and have a talk with her. Find out what Madigan's after—what he's been saying to her."

"What's the good of that? There's nothing she can tell him about me. She doesn't know anything."

"Listen," said Moffett, angrily. "I tell you we're in a jam. You don't seem to realize it. Judge Osgood was in my court last night when I didn't know about it until today. I've got to watch my step. He's a straight-laced old bird. And you've got to watch your step and do as I tell you. You make up some excuse for going into that woman's apartment and use your wits to find out what Madigan's been saying to her."

They heard the door next door shut.

"That's her now," said Lil, partaking of Judge Moffett's anxiety. "She's home."

"All right. Go on in. I'll wait here until you come back."

Great News About Jackie Cooper's New Picture!

By public demand Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has brought the unique talents of Jackie Cooper, co-starred with "Chic" Sale, to adult audiences!

Following the success of Jackie with Wallace Beery in "The Champ" the producers were urged to select a vehicle which would do full justice to the young star's ever-developing genius before audiences of men and women, as well as children.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in its choice of William Johnston's novel "Limpy", upon which this picture is based, believes it has produced an entertainment of distinct adult dramatic and emotional appeal, while yet achieving a picture which youngsters, too, will acclaim.

Essentially a comedy, the team of Jackie Cooper and "Chic" Sale deliver memorable performances of high humor and heart-warming sincerity.

The trials of this boy are our own trials in life—his fight is our fight—his victory is our victory and we cheer him as we see ourselves in him.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer takes great pride in presenting this offering. It is the kind of picture that warms you all over—the kind of show that makes the screen seem very much worth while—the kind of attraction that causes folks to say: "There's a real picture." We urge you to see

The local Buckner-Ragsdale Store Company announced a limited number of dollar dresses as a special last Tuesday morning at one o'clock while they lasted for a quarter each.

A surging, milling, bargain-seeking crowd of women was the answer. The allotment of twenty dollar dresses was gone in twenty minutes. . . members of the sales force later found the upper part of a garment still on the hanger. The skirt part was unaccounted for.

Women packed the building long before the sale hour arrived, and when the word "go" came, first come, first served, proved to be the answer.

Other special items are being announced from time to time by Buckners during the Silver Jubilee Sale.

WORRY—THE DRIVER'S BANE

Mental lapses are a far more important cause of automobile accidents than is commonly believed. While the reports of accidents may give physical causes, such as reckless driving, wrong side of the road, cutting in, etc., those may only be symptoms of a disturbed mental state, asserts Dr. H. J. Stack of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, who says:

"Extreme hurry or worry causing intense preoccupation, fatigue, elation, or excitement, or slowed down reaction as a result of the indulgence in alcohol or other narcotics may be behind an accident. Many of these mental conditions are within our control." He suggests the following precautions as preventative:

1. Take a short rest or let someone else drive the car when you have been driving for a long period at night.
2. Be especially alert when hurrying to work so that you can keep your mind on your driving.
3. The best place for the confirmed back-seat driver is at home.
4. Don't day dream driving a car or crossing the street.
5. Control your temper. If the traffic officer calls you down, probably you deserve it.
6. If you have a superiority complex, forget it when you get behind the steering wheel.
7. Don't become a speed maniac. This mental disorder is serious and contagious. A serious accident seems to be the only cure for its victims.

CHAMPION SHOE SHOP

THEIR TIN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

It has been ten years since Bob and Helen were married. Ten times the snows have spread their glassing white velvet over the frozen brown earth. Ten times the forsythia have shaken their golden bells briskly at the first, faint call of spring. Ten times the gardens have blazed with color beneath the summer sun, and shivered in frail dry leaves in the winds of autumn.

There have been ten Christmases and ten Thanksgivings. Ten times they have wished each other "Happy New Year" over the clamor of bells and whistles. Ten times the cape and fire crackers have snapped and sputtered to celebrate "The Glorious Fourth."

There have been good years and bad years—the wonderful year when young Robert arrived; the year that Bob's business failed—that was a dreadful year—the difficult, delightful year they bought the home.

Helen has forgotten that she prefers Orange Pekoe tea—Bob does so enjoy his cup of Ceylon. The days he comes home early, and it seems silly to have two kinds of tea for just two people.

Bob doesn't mind at all if Helen hums a tune while he is reading his newspaper—in fact he would miss it if she didn't, though for the first year it nearly drove him distracted.

"Ten years are a long time," Bob, muses Helen.

"Yes they are, Helen," he says, and smiles.

"He is just as good looking as ever," thinks Helen, "and I do like the way his hair grows in the back."

"Helen is as fine as they come," thinks Bob, "and all the prettier for those five pounds she is making such a fuss about."

"It is sweet of them to give us a party," continues Helen, "but, Bob, what shall we do with the smart little cans of caviar—Helen loves caviar."

"Bob, do come and look," but before he has a chance to even glance at the label, Frank Lane arrives with six cans of delectable Hawaiian pineapple—pineapple is Bob's weakness.

On his heels comes Herbert with his new little Mexican bride, who presents rather shyly one of her much loved native dishes, chili con carne, in a tin, of course.

Cans Galore!

Grandfather Hot-Blast, kept at home by a severe cold, is next represented by a small messenger boy staggering under the weight of a wooden box filled with cans of strawberries, cherries, peaches, pears, figs, plums, apricots and every delectable sort of fruit.

Edith, who went to school with Helen, brings cans of sardines and deviled chicken in memory of surreptitious school-day feasts. The Allen's gift is cans of wine fruit salad and anchovy paste. Tom Leonard, Bob's particular chum, comes fairly groaning under cans of squash and whole roast chicken, cans of shad roe and green turtle soup. He is a gourmet, and a man who lives up to his principles.

The Supper

Last to arrive is sensible, thoughtful Aunt Katherine, and with her she brings the Anniversary Supper itself ready to eat, with the aid of a can opener and a few minutes of heating.

Fruit Cup

Lobster Newburg

Boston Brown Bread

Vacuum Packed Nutz Fruit Cake

Cheese and Crackers

Coffee

The last guest has departed. "What are you going to do with these dreadful tin things?" asks Bob with a twinkle in his eye.

"Bob," says Helen solemnly, "some one of our friends is awfully clever—and nice."

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Arthur and Mrs. W. R. Burks and daughter, Miss Kathryn, were in Vanduser, Monday evening.
